It is with great pleasure that we present the latest issue of the “University Journal of Dental Sciences”. This journal reflects our sustained commitment to advancing scientific knowledge, clinical excellence, and innovation in dentistry. The articles published in this current issue showcase the dedication of researchers, clinicians, academicians, and students who strive to improve oral healthcare through evidence-based practice. As dentistry continues to evolve with emerging technologies and interdisciplinary approaches, the importance of quality research and lifelong learning need to be addressed. We hope this issue encourages meaningful academic discussions, inspires collaborative research, and supports the translation of scientific findings into clinical practice. We sincerely appreciate the authors for their valued contributions, the reviewers for their meticulous evaluations, and the editorial board for their unwavering commitment to maintaining high publication standards. We also thank our readers for their constant trust and encouragement. Together, let us continue to foster a culture of scientific inquiry, principled practice and academic excellence that benefits our profession and the communities we serve. We look forward to your persistent support and contributions in future issues.

Best Regards
